Vietnam: Former Witch Doctor Becomes Motorbike Evangelist

Tuan has been a bold evangelist among the Hmong for more than two decades. Born into a family of fortune-tellers and witch doctors overseeing spirit worship in their village, Tuan began working among them at age 14. Living in that spiritual darkness, Tuan became addicted to drugs and alcohol until he came to faith in Christ. Soon after, he began to tell people about the Jesus who gave him not just physical life but also spiritual freedom. Pastor Tuan has been a prolific evangelist ever since, leading hundreds to Christ and praying to reach a growing number each year. Though he has been denied official government documents and a driver's license because of his refusal to deny Christ, provincial police rarely stop him now because they are tired of arguing with him. Tuan received a motorbike last year and has driven thousands of miles already as he travels everywhere he can with the Good News.
